² Under Code Sections 129 and 21, the deemed income of a spouse incapable of self-care or a full-time student is $250 per month for one qualifying individual or $500 per month for two or more qualifying individuals.

⁴ Although the ACA-compliant maximum out-of-pocket for 2020 is $16,300 per family, the DOL has clarified that no individual may exceed the self-only maximum out-of-pocket of $8,150 per individual.
